

Friday 24 April Day 26 of the garden journal

24/04/2020

Comma butterfly, you can see how he got his name!

Gill Buttle

24/04/2020

Small tortoiseshell on last year's dianthus.

Gill Buttle

24/04/2020

Beautiful delicate scent from the pale pink rhododendron, in the foreground, together with clematis Montana with its vanilla perfume. So lucky to have a garden.

24/04/2020

First lily of the valley.

Libby and Tim Rothwell

24/04/2020

The first damselfly of the year - or at least the first willing to pose. Large red damselfly, (Entomologists can be quite imaginative sometimes when naming things!). ;)

Alan Kenworthy

24/04/2020

Found this Sasanqua-type camellia lurking in the shrubbery! Tiny leaves and flowers.

Mike Marsh

24/04/2020

The fruits of this dwarf tree are more like large crab apples than eaters, with flesh as pink as the blossom. I have never eaten one straight from the tree but they do make a colourful compote.

Sandy Andrews

