

Sunday 26 April Day 28 of the garden journal

Braeburn apple tree laden with blossom this year after Brian Sindon rescued it from falling over in the strong winds last autumn, thank you Brian! I understand that plants/trees will put in a large effort to survive if they are threatened with being destroyed.

Beautiful and delicately scented deciduous azalea in the morning sun. The azaleas in this garden were here when we moved to Pett 23 years ago and had been part of the large garden that was here before our house was built in the 1970s!

Not mine but growing in a member's garden, too good not to photograph for the journal.
